merous Guests Present.

The spirit of fraternity presided over the banquet board at the annual function of the Marshall Chapter. Phi Delta Phi, last night at the Ebbitt House. As a re-sult happiness and good fellowship ruled supreme while those at the table discussed the entrees on the seasonable menu, from blue points to coffee and cigars, and talked of fraternity matters and other things of interest.

"Auld Lang Syne" was the shibboleth of the hosts and the guests alike, and the genial toastmaster, Mr. John Thilman Hendrick atuned it in his every happy introduction.

The first response was by Justice Gould,

Closing Night of Second Week Scores

The second week of the fair and bazaar being held by the Knights of Pythias, at their temple, on 9th street northwest, closed last night with one of the largest crowds in attendance. The visiting organization was the Improved Order of Red Men, which assembled at 5th and G streets and were met there by an escort of the Uniform Rank, K. of P., with a drum corps, and headed by Grand Emir S. M. Pearson of Ascalon Temple, No. 81, Dramatic Order of Knights of Khorassan, and accompanied by a large delegation of the members of the order in costume, also by a very creditable showing by the ladies' auxiliary. The degree of Pocohontas marched by a short route to the temple, where they were received with a short speech of welcome by Director General T. A. Bynum, who ex-

INSURANCE MEN MEET AT MAR-

SHALL HALL.

Business Ignored and Hilarity Reigns Supreme-List of the Guests.

Not many fire insurance policies were written up yesterday afternoon, according to popular belief, for the reason that the fire underwriters were all out of the city. The occasion was their annual planked shad dinner at Marshall Hall. As to the succes of the outing, it is sufficient to say that all the excursionists entered into the spirit of the affair with the same vim that they go after insurance on the other days of the year. Shop talk, it was announced.

The boat, carrying over 250 prominent citizens of the city, including officers and directors of the local insurance companies. were on the deck of the steamer Macales-ter when the boat left the dock about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The party reached Marshall Hall in about an hour, and for a time the excursionists enjoyed themselves in a variety of games, including the ever-popular base ball. No score was kept for the game, however, and some one rudely binted that the scorekeeper could

At 4:30 o'clock the entire party was summoned to the dining hall, where they sat down to a planked shad dinner, the first one of the season at this resort. During the course of the dinner vocal solos were ren-dered by George H. O'Connor and Paul I. Grove, and instrumental music was fur-nished by Schroeder's Orchestra. The annual custom of having "Uncle Sam" Cross sing "The Sword of Bunker Hill" was not omitted. Mr. Edward Droop was the ac-whole-hearted manner, and then introduced the first speaker, Mr. H. B. F. Macfarland, president of the board of Commissioners.

In his introduction, Mr. Brown referred to the reappointment of Mr. Macfarland as Commissioner, and spoke of the general ap-

In responding to this greeting, Mr. Mac-the work of the committee in inspecting Howard. The first chapter was flourishing in the year 1869. The object of the society was to promote good fellowship and foster a feeling of brotherly love among students of the law and to bring them into closer association that they might enjoy the benefits resulting therefrom.

Active chapters are located in the law schools throughout the country, and the only persons eligible to active membership are students pursuing a course of study in one of these schools. Member-ship in other fraternities is in itself no bar to those desiring to enter Phi Delta Phi, for the founders realized that the majority of men who pursue the study of law do so after they had graduated from an ordinary college course, during which time many of them usually identify themselves with one fraternity or another. taking in these students Phi Delta Phi reaps the benefit of their three or four years' experience in fraternity life. Next in order was Dean Vance, who told of the "George Washington University Law School, Present and Prospective." The chapters are named for men whose names have gone down in history as the most famous lawyers and jurists of their time. The local branch is known as the John Marshall Chapter, named after that famous statesman who, from a law student, rose to the chief justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.
